

An Extraordinary Record

300-Plus Years of Germans in New Orleans as Documented in
The Historic New Orleans Collection

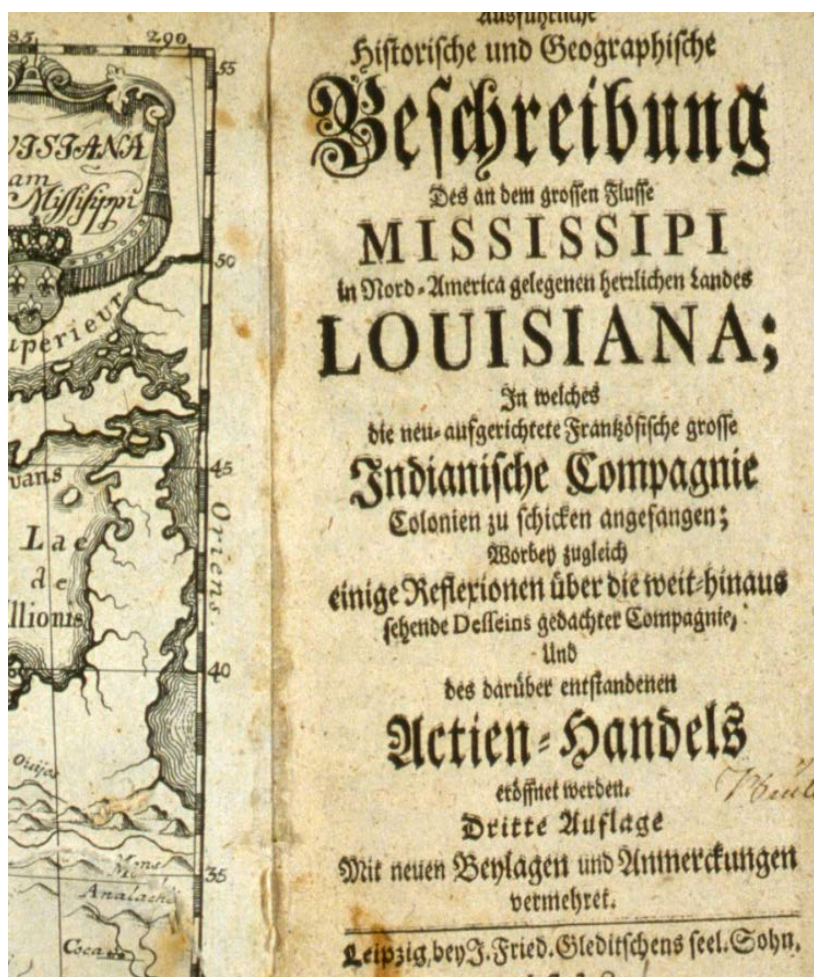

Daniel Hammer

Deputy Director,
The Historic New Orleans Collection

April 7, 2016

6:00 PM

Union South, UW–Madison

An exploration of the history of Germans in New Orleans, including the establishment of a German colony in the 1720s; German experiences in the 19th century within the city's cultural scene and social and charitable organizations; and the impact of World War I on the New Orleans German community.

The presentation will also address challenges of preserving historic archival materials and barriers to making them accessible, such as their condition, obscurity, language and paleography.

more information at mki.wisc.edu